

Net4kids: about being involved

Net4kids was born from a personal quest for involvement. Founders Loek en Anke van den Boog wanted to know how their contribution made a difference and to whom, rather than donating anonymously to a generic cause. None of the renowned charity organisations, however, seemed capable of supplying such information, until Unicef provided them the option of being directly involved in the establishment of a community center in Sudan. They adopted the project and friends and colleagues soon joined in with similar concrete aid, donating funds for a waterpump, books or a teacher. Experiencing the growing commitment, Loek and Anke van den Boog decided to broaden their scope and go public with their proposition: Net4kids was born.

Net4kids partners and projects: carefully selected

Be it for small private initiatives or for big public charity corporations, Net4kids has strict criteria that aid organisations should adhere to. We demand the same things from our project partners there that you demand from us here: a personal approach, tangible benefits and transparent management. Project set-up, progress and management are being monitored on a regular basis. With Net4kids we want to structurally improve the life of children. Therefore all of our projects involve education, healthcare and/or water supply.

Net4kids: no deductions

Net4kids guarantees that 100% of each donation ends up with the project of your choice. No organisational costs are deducted. The organisation has its own sponsors and its own administration. That way you know exactly what you give and to whom.

We are confident about this transparent approach. Therefore, Net4kids has a money back guarantee. If you are not satisfied with the way your donation is handled, we will refund the entire amount. Again: no costs deducted.

"Seeing the children and the direct impact that your donation has on their life, is far more compelling than any generalized information – no matter how detailed"

"We stand for a personal approach, with transparency and accountability. In the end that is what all parties are looking for, children and sponsors and aid organisations alike"

Loek and Anke van den Boog

Donate online!

- You determine what you give and to whom
- 100% of your contribution ends up with the project of your choice
- Personal internet reports about the impact of your contribution

More about

Visit our website at www.net4kids.org or email us: info@net4kids.org

